Editorial

Though nothing can bring back the hour
Of splendor in the grass, of glory in the flowers,
We will grieve not, rather find
Strength in what remains behind;
In the primal sympathy
Which having been must ever be.

William W. Winescent Jr.

Where might one even begin to sum up the absolute roller coaster this last year has been for all of us? The COVID-19 pandemic changed the entire social landscape of the world we move across while the human condition was entirely reshaped there last few months, punctuated by our shared experiences of suffering and such unending despair. It was that absolute humaneness that redeemed us, that need to find beauty and to give it kindness saved us from what is retrogressed folk into moral oblivion. The theme of this year's magazine was a natural choice. To showcase Human Persistence was to acknowledge and pay homage to those stout warriors, and others around the world who made the time of upheaval all that more bearable.

But we had, by thirty times we wanted to run away. We felt exhausted, yet at the same time ashamed of ourselves for not being proud artists. The expectations got less. The need to be constantly doing something was so strong, that taking a break felt like sinning. And when it all became too much, we compared to ourselves. The professional musicians, we took a break, we recharged and used that creative momentum to make the kind of music we wanted. We stopped succumbing to the pressure and role, just like the night before. You refused to admit defeat to our musician reality, we persevered.

I love nature. Trees, hills, watching the sun rise is among my favourite pastimes. So, when Kinnaird Hall announced about the Green Trek, in the sanctuary, it seemed like a brilliant way to spend my Sunday morning. It was an initiative of the Green Club, A trek to Parvati along with making the hill a little more beautiful by cleaning it was the perfect combination.

I fit not really sure if every college gives their students the chance to be a part of so many co-curricular activities and events as well as promotes social participation among the students, in order to make them active members of the society, apart from academics. I am just the winner, but I am also a part of this club, where it's all about trying to bring equality in the society. The college for giving me so much exposure in the society since I have been a part of this exciting ICBQ. I have experienced different layers of society and have been able to express my voice as a confident person. I am confounded by the new ideas coming up, the different people who came in for the quest of knowledge and the teachers encourage the students to learn. This is the first time I came across for the first time and I find this initiative of four college educate different students by giving them opportunities on various platforms where

The college is already preparing its students by giving them opportunities on various platforms where they are heard and the efforts are appreciated.

Now, I have written quite a few articles for this club and this gives me the eagerness to write more about many other themes apart from what I am apart of.

In the club, we organize different activities every month and this way we also get to interact with all the students from our college. It includes not just the FYs but we are able to listen to the views of the students studying in their MA too.

I will always be grateful for this platform and the club and especially the college because it gave me the inspiration to become the prolific explorer in whatever I do as I met such talented seniors and my classmates. It's wonderful to believe.
